PARKE-BERNET GALLERIES, Inc

30 EAST 57th STREET
NEW YORK 22, N. Y.

Public Auction Sales of Art and Literary Property

The officers and staff of Parke-Bernet Galleries have conducted virtually every important art and book auction held in this country during the past forty years, including such notable book collections as the John A. Spoor, John Gribbel, A. Edward Newton, Frank J. Hogan, James H. Pershing, R. Jay Flick, Henry Alden Sherwin, Scott & Fowles, Eldridge R. Johnson and many others.

A competent, knowledgeable staff of specialists versed in every phase of public auction selling, a reputation for fair dealing, and a following of important and wealthy collectors throughout the country have established the Parke-Bernet Galleries as the leading firm in the United States for public auction sales of art and literary property.

P R E F A C E

THIS is the fifty-second volume of AMERICAN BOOK-PRICES CURRENT and the first to report sales of the period following V-J Day. It covers the period September 1945 to July 1946 and records 125 sales providing more than 17,000 entries. The volumes for the war years, ably edited by Mr. Colton Storm of The Clements Library, Ann Arbor, Michigan, show a sharp rise in auction activities in literary properties over the years preceding the war, and this volume continues to offer the same evidence.

Although "big name" sales were few in number, two items this season reached the $50,000 price mark: The Manley-Rosebery copy of the first folio edition of Shakespeare, sold in the third part of the Frank Hogan sale, and the famous "Alice" manuscript of Lewis Carroll, sold in the first part of the Eldridge R. Johnson sale. The Johnson sale also contained two copies of the 1865 "Alice"—one with corrections in the author's autograph and with ten original drawings by Tenniel, which sold for $23,000; and another copy, inscribed by the author to Mrs. Dinah Mulock Craik, which sold for $7,500. The Hogan sale had some outstanding lots to place beside the first folio, a few of which are here mentioned: The King James Bible (1611), which sold for $4,000; the first edition of Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress" (1678), which, although described as "made-up", brought $8,000; that great rarity, the Caxton Chaucer of 1478, lacking 80 leaves and with 3 leaves added, which sold for $13,000; Henry Howard's "Songes and Sonettes", fifth edition (1559), which sold for $8,200; Milton's "Paradise Lost" (1667), with Lowndes's so-called first title-page, which sold for $6,500.

The best indication of trends in collecting is not to be found by examining records of the high spots sold this year, but by observing the smaller sales and the books sold in these sales. The so-called minor books, often disregarded in the past few years, seem to have come into their own. Sales of art reference books, such as the Scott & Fowles, the McDonald, and the Brandt sales, were replete with items which brought startlingly high prices compared with the prices heretofore paid for such books. Americana, especially in the lower price brackets, was prominent in such sales as the Sheffield, the Morrison, and the

Johnson collections, with most of the lots comparing favorably with past records, and with a great many appearing for the first time to take their place among desired books. The season just concluded also offered many fine out-of-the-way English and foreign works of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries in such sales as the Wetter, Isaacs-Kemmerer, Odescalchi, Chappell, and others. The Chappell sale offered the largest collection of the works of Goethe yet recorded in AMERICAN BOOK-PRICES CURRENT, and the Isaacs-Kemmerer sale brought forth an impressive run of Trollope. Press books, color plate books, sporting books, et cetera, appeared as usual throughout the season, without suffering unfavorable comparison with past times.

Mr. Storm's comment in the 1945 volume is here fitting: "As with last year's records, a surprisingly large number of titles appear here for the first time, perhaps indicating a continuing rise in the general level of rare and out-of-print book prices. Possibly the enormity of book destruction in Europe and the Orient and the necessity for replacement of those bombed and burned books throughout the world, has made all extant books more precious. Certainly for some time to come, there will be a steady demand from Europe for moderately priced books described here. Future volumes of AMERICAN BOOK-PRICES CURRENT will probably reflect this movement."

The editor wishes to express his thanks to the various auction houses and to many friends in the trade for their co-operation in this work. He wishes especially to record his gratitude to Mr. Colton Storm, who unselfishly preserved and with great skill improved this work during the three trying years of his editorship.

Guide to the Use of American Book-Prices Current

Each entry is keyed — for example, X (1) $825, means sale “X”, the first item of that particular sale catalog, price realized $825.

On pages will be found the keys used to identify the sales of the season. The auction houses are arranged in alphabetical order, and the key to sales of each house is listed in boldface type. Here also will be found the date of the sale and a brief general description.

Within the text the items are indexed alphabetically by author whenever possible. For anonymous and pseudonymous titles the user should consult standard reference books such as Halkett & Laing, Cushing, and others to determine the author. Some items are entered by title (when author is not to be found) and there are some subject entries (States, Trials, etc.) which are cross-indexed. Under the author entries the books are arranged in alphabetical order by title. Detailed information as to the exact edition and condition of the specific copy sold is given. Press books and Club Publications are under the name of the issuing Press or Club. Genealogies are listed under the family name or under the author.

Items selling below $5.00 are not included as such sales at auction do not establish a bona fide value for either dealer or collector.

Monographs on famous artists have been catalogued under the author's name (when known) and cross-indexed under the name of the individual artist.

An explanation of abbreviations used follows this page.

The 1941 volume of AMERICAN BOOK-PRICES CURRENT carried detailed notes on the use of the series and index volumes which it is suggested the uninitiated consult.

THE NEVV INNE

OR,

The light Heart.

A COMOEDY.

As it was neuer acted, but most negligently play'd, by some,
the Kings Seruants.

And more squeamishly beheld, and censured by others, the Kings Subiects.

1629.

Now, at last, set at liberty to the Readers, his Ma^{ties}
Seruants, and Subiects, to be iudg'd.

1631.

By the Author, B. Ions^{on}.

Hor. me lectori credere malle:
Quam spectatoris fastidia ferre superbi.

L O N D O N,

Printed by Thomas Harper, for Thomas Alchorne, and are to be sold at his shop in Pauls Church-yard, at the signe of the Greene Dragon.

and her eyes immediately met those of a large blue caterpillar, which was sitting with its arms folded, quietly smoking a long hookah, and taking not the least notice of her or of anything else.

For some time they looked at each other in silence: at last the caterpillar took the hookah out of its mouth, and languidly addressed her.

"Who are you?" said the caterpillar.

This was not an encouraging opening for a conversation: Alice replied rather shyly, "I—I hardly know, sir, just at present—at least I know who I was when I got up this morning, but I think I must have been changed several times since that."

"What do you mean by that?" said the caterpillar, "explain yourself!"

"I can't explain myself, I'm afraid, sir,"
